Logo Overview

The primary logo must not be altered or repositioned in any format. True scale must be maintained when reducing or expanding its size. The iconography features a gradient that should remain consistent. The typography has a slight off-white coloration and should not be converted to pure white.

Logo Usage

Color variations of the logo should remain in their primary format unless the graphic content requires a different approach for clarity and visibility.

The blue background is primary and must include the gradient iconography at all times.

The secondary version must also include the gradient iconography.

The tertiary version is a true white vector, to be used only on approved background colors.
